HOUSEWORK

Too much housework wrecks women's nerves. And the constant care of children, day and night, is often too trying for even a strong woman. A haggard face tells the story of the overworked housewife and mother. Deranged menses, leucorrhœa and falling of the womb result from overwork. Every housewife needs a remedy to regulate her menses and to keep her sensitive female organs in perfect condition.

WINE OF CARDUI

is doing this for thousands of American women to-day. It cured Mrs. Jones and that is why she writes this frank letter:

Glendeane, Ky., Feb. 10, 1901.
I am so glad that your Wine of Cardui is helping me. I am feeling better than I have felt for years. I am doing my own work without any help, and I washed last week and was not one bit tired. That shows that the Wine is doing me good. I am getting fleshier than I ever was before, and sleep good and eat hearty. Before I began taking Wine of Cardui, I used to have to lay down five or six times every day, but now I do not think of lying down through the day. MRS. RICHARD JONES.

Drying preparations simply develop dry catarrh; they dry up the secretions, which adhere to the membrane and decompose, causing a far more serious trouble than the ordinary form of catarrh. Avoid all drying inhalants, fumes, smokes and snuffs and use that which cleanses, soothes and heals. Ely's Cream Balm is such a remedy and will cure catarrh or cold in the head easily and pleasantly. A trial size will be mailed for 10 cents. All druggists sell the 50c. size. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N.Y.
The Balm cures without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing. It spreads itself over an irritated and angry surface, relieving immediately the painful inflammation.
With Ely's Cream Balm you are armed against Nasal Catarrh and Hay Fever.

Fragile Hearts

There were once a king and queen who had three beautiful daughters, and the organism of these three princesses was remarkable for their each being furnished with a heart of glass.

"Children, children," said the queen when the princesses were still quite small, "whatever you do, take care of your hearts, for they are of fragile make."

The children therefore tried to be very careful, and for some time all went well and the hearts remained unbroken.

But one day the eldest girl, who was leaning out of the window, looking down into the garden below, noticed a little bee which was buzzing busily around some flowers. The little creature interested her so much that she leaned out farther, so as to be able to watch it more closely, when suddenly, smash! there came a sound of broken glass. The young princess had crushed her heart against the window sill, and so, alas, the poor girl expired.

After this exceedingly sad accident the other two sisters were still more careful about their hearts.

Some time after the death of the princess the second daughter very thoughtlessly drank a cup of rather hot coffee, and when she had it finished something was suddenly heard to crack, and she fell back fainting into an armchair. The sound on this occasion, however, was not so loud as on the first. The queen rushed to where the princess lay and on examining her found, to her great delight, that the heart was only slightly cracked and not broken and that her daughter was still alive.

"What are we to do with our daughter?" said the king to the queen. "For, although the injury to her heart amounts only to a crack at present, this may increase to a decided fracture."

But the princess begged them not to worry themselves about her.

"For you know," said she, "it's the cracked pitcher that goes oftenest to the well."

Meanwhile the youngest daughter grew up and became a most beautiful as well as a most remarkably clever girl, and many a handsome and wealthy prince from distant lands came to ask for her fair hand. But the old king did not forget the bitter experiences he had had with his two elder girls.

"I have only one daughter left with a whole heart, and hers is also of glass. Therefore if I give her in marriage to any one it must be to a king who is at the same time a glazier and who understands how to treat an article so fragile, so that in case of accidents he would know how to rivet the cracks."

Unfortunately none of the young princes and nobles who had come as suitors to the princess knew anything at all about how to rivet broken glass and were none of them glaziers by profession, so they had to return to their native lands miserable and disappointed lovers.

Among the royal pages in the palace was one whose term as page was shortly to expire. He had still to carry the train of the youngest princess three times, and after that he was to be promoted to a full blown courtier.

On the first occasion when the page had to carry the young princess' train she glanced at him, and as their eyes met she blushed. When next he carried her train, she waved her hand to him at parting, and the unfortunate youth was unable to sleep the whole of that night in consequence.

The third time when the young fellow bore the princess' train the king came forward to meet them half way and dismissed the page, saying:

"You have done your duty now, young man, and you may go. I thank you and have also to congratulate you on your promotion."

With that the king turned and walked away, while the princess bent forward to where the page stood and said:

"You carried my train so beautifully, better than any one else. Oh, why are you not a king and a glazier?"

The unfortunate young man felt so confused as well as delighted that he was unable to utter a word in reply. He managed, however, to make a very graceful and polite bow. When the princess had left him, he ran as hard as ever he could to the nearest glazier and asked him whether he was in need of a foreman.

"Yes," replied the other, "but you will have to work four years with me before you can be foreman. At first you must be a sort of errand boy and go to the baker's to fetch me my bread and also to look after my children, wash them and dress them; secondly, you must learn to putty the cracks; thirdly, you will have to learn how to cut the glass and fix in windows, and after that, in the fourth year, you shall be my foreman."

The page thought this would take rather too long, so he asked the glazier whether he could not possibly begin with cutting the glass and fixing windows and leave out the rest so as to get on quicker. But the glazier shook his head and assured the young fellow that every good glazier had to begin his career from the beginning or he could never be clever. So the page was obliged to reconcile himself to his fate.

The whole of the first year the unfortunate young courtier spent his time in running to the baker's for bread for his master and in washing and dressing the children. In the second year he did nothing but stop cracks with putty. In the third year he learned how to cut glass and fix windows, and at last, at the commencement of the fourth year, he was made foreman.

After having been foreman for a whole year he took leave of his master, and, dressing himself up once more in court dress, he walked along the roads in deep thought, wondering how he could possibly become a king. As he was walking on a man came toward him, and, seeing that the young courtier was in deep thought, he stopped and asked him whether he had lost anything.

"Well, I don't know that I have exactly lost anything, but at any rate I cannot find what I want."

"And what is that?"

"A kingdom. I am wondering how on earth I can become a king."

"Well, if you had been a glazier," said the stranger, "I might have helped you."

"That is just exactly what I am!" exclaimed the other. "I have only lately been foreman to a glazier."

"Then you have nothing to fear. You are no doubt aware that our king decided some time ago to give his youngest daughter in marriage to a glazier who was to be at the same time a king or at any rate a prince; but as they have been unsuccessful in finding such a person the king has been reluctantly obliged to modify his demands by adding two other conditions. The bridegroom must in any case be a glazier; that, of course, goes without saying."

"But what are the two conditions?" asked the young courtier excitedly.

"The first condition is that he should please the princess, and the second is that he should be a nobleman by birth. There have already been a great number of glaziers applying at the palace, but not one of them took the princess' fancy, and all of them had coarse, rough hands like those of the commonest glazier."

When our young courtier heard these words, he jumped three times about a yard above the road for very joy and then, turning around, ran helter skelter back to the town and presented himself at the palace in less than no time.

The king at once ordered the princess to be called, and when she arrived he asked her whether this young glazier took her fancy.

The princess glanced at the young man, and, recognizing him, at once, she blushed and said, "Oh, yes."

The king ordered the young fellow to take off his gloves and show his hands, so that they might know whether he was of noble birth. However, the princess said that it was quite unnecessary for the young man to do anything of the kind, as she felt perfectly certain that there was no doubt whatever of his being of noble birth and that his hands, she was sure, would be as white as those of a prince.

So they were married, and as the young princess' husband was a glazier by profession as well as a nobleman by birth he understood how to treat a heart so delicate and fragile as hers; therefore she lived blissfully to the end of her days without any accident happening.

His Phonograph.

A member of the Irish constabulary was recently about to start upon a railway journey. He appeared at the booking office window with a paper in his hand, which it was evidently necessary for the clerk to sign. The latter, however, did not seem to rise to a sense of his responsibilities till at last the policeman said in an agitated voice not far removed from anger, "For heaven's sake, man, put your phonograph in it." It was signed immediately.

The Cause of It.

One of the important personages at the Wood's Holl Marine laboratory is a janitor who is noted for the brilliant coloring of his hair and for his ready wit.

"Your hair certainly is bright, Mike," one of the students said to the janitor one day. "What on earth makes it so red?"

"Sure, an' I don't know," was Mike's answer quick as a flash, "unless it's heredity."—Baltimore Sun.

A YOUNG LADY'S LIFE SAVED

At Panama, Colombia, by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy.

Dr. Charles H. Utter, a prominent physician of Panama, Colombia, in a recent letter states: "Last March I had as a patient a young lady sixteen years of age, who had a very bad attack of dysentery. Everything I prescribed for her proved ineffectual and she was growing worse every hour. Her parents were sure she would die. She had become so weak that she could not turn over in bed. What to do at this critical moment was a study for me, but I thought of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy and as a last resort prescribed it. The most wonderful result was effected. Within eight hours she was feeling much better; inside of three days she was upon her feet and at the end of one week was entirely well." For sale by F. Duhring.

THE MAN IN ARMOR

Was no match for the microbe. Giants he might slay but this microscopic organism defied him, and in many a campaign more men were destroyed by camp diseases than by the enemy's sword.

The one way to arm against microbic disease is to keep the blood pure. Impure blood both breeds and feeds disease.

The signs of impure blood are easy to read. Pimples, boils, and eruptions generally proclaim the blood to be impure. Scrofulous sores and swellings, salt-rheum, eczema, etc., are other signs of a corrupt condition of the blood.

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies the blood and cures diseases caused by the blood's impurity. It cures scrofulous sores, boils, pimples, eczema and other defiling and disfiguring diseases.

"It gives me great pleasure to express my faith in the virtue of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mr. Ezekiel Floro, of Graytown, Ottawa Co., Ohio. "I suffered everything for two years with humor on my face, which baffled the skill of some of the most noted physicians. Was at once advised to go to the hospital; was doctored there for three months without success. Came home discouraged. Then began to doctor with a 'chemist.' He also failed to help me. Then I began Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, with no faith whatever in it. Did it only to please my wife; but I am happy to tell you that after taking five bottles I am entirely cured."

FREE. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 31 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

POLITICAL.

THE Democrats of Glen Ellen have nominated six citizens of that place for delegates to the county convention, which will convene at Santa Rosa on Tuesday, August 12th. The nominees are William Behler, James Cowan, William Sobbe, Thomas Howell, N. B. Iseman and Robert P. Hill. Three of these only will be chosen. The nominees are all of them substantial citizens of our sister town and no matter which three of the six are chosen Glen Ellen will be well and ably represented in the convention.

TRACY, the Oregon convict, whose escape from prison and desperate deeds as an outlaw for weeks past have made him a daily news feature of the press, has at last wound up a murderous career by killing himself. Tuesday evening in Eastern Washington he was surrounded by pursuers and was shot twice in the leg. Unable himself to stanch the bleeding wounds, he anticipated the inevitable by placing a revolver to his head and blowing his brains out.

THE Republican primaries held in Napa county Tuesday resulted in a sweeping victory for the anti-Gage forces.

Frederick Warde in "Damon and Pythias"

Prominent among the many forms of entertainment arranged for the visiting Knights of Pythias in San Francisco next week will be a magnificent production of "Damon and Pythias by the eminent tragedian, Frederick Warde, at the California Theater. In former years this was one of Mr. Warde's greatest successes and its revival during the week of the Pythian Knights is most apropos to the celebration in honor of the visiting hosts.

Mr. Warde himself is a prominent member of the Knights of Pythias and in the big parade on August 12 he will officiate as one of the chief aids to the Commanding General. In playing "Damon and Pythias" during such a week of festivity the eminent actor may safely be counted upon to put forth his very best efforts.

The San Francisco critics have heralded Warde as being the only legitimate successor to Edwin Booth, Barrett, McCullough and the other famous tragedians of the past, and have heaped most lavish praise upon all of his productions thus far at the California. In the field of American legitimate drama there is not an actor who can be mentioned in the same class with Frederick Warde. Next week will be Mr. Warde's last appearance on the coast for some time to come.

Mr. Garrison, who resides in Oakland, met with a painful accident one day last week. While hurrying down the back staircase of his residence to catch an electric car his foot slipped and he fell to the bottom of the stairs. A deep gash was cut in one of his wrists, which came in contact with an iron foot scraper and an artery was severed. Mr. Garrison was hurried to a near-by hospital, where he nearly bled to death before the surgeon stanched the flow of blood, which flooded the room in which he was taken. At latest accounts the injured man, although somewhat improved, is threatened with blood poisoning. Mr. Garrison, is the son-in-law of Mrs. M. A. Johnson of this place.

DR. LAWLOR'S PLACE IS FILLED

DR. DAWSON OF ST. HELENA HIS SUCCESSOR

Gun Play One of the Lively Features of the Board Meeting to Oust Him

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Home for Feeble Minded, held last Saturday afternoon at the Grand Hotel in San Francisco, Dr. W. J. G. Dawson of St. Helena was elected to the position of Superintendent, vice Dr. W. M. Lawlor, resigned.

Directors Gould and Dugan were late, and for a time it was thought they would not be present. They finally arrived, however, and the the Board proceeded to business, President Dugan in the chair.

Dr. Lawlor read the minutes of the last meeting, at which his own resignation had been presented. He then read his report for the past month.

After the transaction of some routine business Colonel Harrington rose and in a short address placed the name of Dr. Dawson in nomition for Superintendent of the Home. Colonel Harrington stated that Dr. Dawson had been indorsed by Governor Gage and by Drs. Kenyon, Rixford, McNutt and Gardner. Director Rooney seconded the motion and both Directors Rooney and Harrington voted aye.

President Dugan announced Dr. Dawson elected.

Immediately after the result of the vote had been announced, a young man rushed over to where Director Harrington was seated and, shaking his fist in that gentleman's face, exclaimed: "You are an old man and I am a young one, but I propose to hold you responsible for what you have said about my father!" It was Dr. Lawlor's son, and Director Harrington became very angry, ordering the young man to leave the room. To this demand no attention was paid and a wordy war ensued.

Rising to a question of personal privilege, Dr. Lawlor, speaking under stress of much excitment, said he wished to refute certain statements made by Director Harrington in the newspapers. One of these was to the effect that the Superintendent had quartered his three sons upon the State, and that they had terrorized the inmates of the institution. "If Mr. Harrington made any such statement," he concluded, "he lied."

Springing to his feet, Director Harrington drew a revolver and made a rush for Lawlor. Frank Norris, the novelist, who was near, grabbed Harrington's arm and prevented him from discharging the weapon, and he was finally hustled from the room, Dr. Lawlor in the meantime imploring that Harrington be permitted to do his worst, and taunting him with being both a coward and a knave.

The affair caused a great sensation and much comment. Colonel Harrington is a native of Kentucky and is a brother of Judge Harrington of Alturas, who presided at the trial of the Modoc county lynchers last spring.

SECRETLY WEDDED

Miss Sara Cady and Dr. C. F. English United a Month Ago

The many friends of Miss Sara Cady will be surprised to learn that she was secretly wedded over a month ago to Dr. Charles F. English, a prominent young physician, recently of St. Luke's Hospital, San Francisco. The marriage was only announced last Monday.

It appears that the young couple met at St. Luke's Hospital several years ago, where Dr. English was the resident physician. Miss Cady was then studying to become a trained nurse in that institution, and graduated last June. An attachment was formed between them and they became engaged about a year ago.

Recently Dr. English removed to Sonora, Tuolumne county, where his skill as a physician won for him a lucrative practice. On July 7th Dr. English came down from Sonora and by appointment met Miss Cady at her home in San Francisco. The couple then took a trip to Martinez, Contra Costa county, where they were quietly wedded by Rev. J. R. Wolfe. The doctor then returned to Sonora and his wife to the home of her parents in San Francisco.

The marriage was kept a profound secret and no one else knew of the wedding until Dr. English's arrival in the city Monday when he repaired to the home of his young bride and claimed his own. The following day Dr. and Mrs. English left for their new home in Sonora.

Dr. English is a son of the late John F. English, who at one time was one of the best known and successful commission merchants of the metropolis. He stands high in his profession and is widely known in medical circles.

The bride is one of Sonoma valley's sweetest girls. She was raised here and was a graduate of our High School, where she enjoyed the distinction of being one of the brightest of its students. She has a lovely disposition and this coupled with her vivaciousness and intelligence gives the doctor a bride he might well be proud of.

A Large Berry Crop

An army of blackberry pickers is at work in Analy township. It is said that the section of which Sebastopol is the center produces more blackberries and raspberries that all other sections of the State combined, and a large force of pickers is necessary to strip the vines. At present, the Times states, T. E. Barlow is employing over one hundred hands in his berry fields near town. The price of berries this year is $46 per ton, at which figure there is a handsome profit for the grower. Berries are now being shipped in carload lots.

RAILWAY IMPROVEMENTS

California Northwestern to Erect New Depot at Schellville

The California Northwestern Railway Company has decided to erect a new depot building at Schellville, and with this object in view Superintendent Zook took a spin over the Sonoma valley branch last Tuesday. The new edifice will be an up-to-date affair and will be built with an eye out to the increased passenger and freight traffic of that station.

The roadbed is also being ballasted with rock and gravel taken from the company's quarries at Black Point.

The California Northwestern has done a splendid business this season and no doubt will give its patrons a much better and faster service the coming year than ever before.

A Pure Fabrication

ED. TRIBUNE-INDEX—Dear Sir: In the last issue of your contemporary an article appeared giving a sensational account of my automobile taking fire, etc., and stating among other things that "the bottom of the machine was burned."

The truth of the matter is that a strong wind was blowing and forced some of the flames out of the fire-box, and my wife's dress of very light material blew back into it and took fire, which was easily extinguished. The story of burning the bottom of the machine is a pure fabrication, as there never was a bottom in it and hence it could not burn out. I think it would be well for you contemporary to be a little more careful of its statements or else study the construction of an automobile, so that it could at least come somewhere near the truth. Yours sincerely, F. D. SPAULDING.

Cheap Rates to This Valley

An immense number of people will assemble in San Francisco during the convention of the Knights of Pythias next week, and there will be a chance given the visitors to indulge in sight-seeing trips into the interior of the State.

The California Northwestern will have tickets on sale at its ticket office at 650 Market street (Chronicle Building), to all points, except suburban, as far as Willits, at one fare for the round trip, with a reasonable time limit and with stop-over privileges. These special facilities will be in force from August 11 to 20, inclusive, and many will no doubt avail themselves of this chance to see Sonoma county.

Stone Bridge

The Board of Supervisors on last Wednesday let a contract to P. Maroni for the construction of a stone bridge over Calabesas creek near Glen Ellen. The contract price is $693. G. De. Bernardi and William Trudgen of this place also put in a bid to build the structure for $849.95. This bridge when finished will be the only structure of the kind in Sonoma county.

There will be three pieces of music—violin, cornet and piano—by Barlow's orchestra. The boys know that when O'Rouke takes the management everything goes off in first-class style and a jolly good time is guaranteed.

One day last week while out hunting jack rabbits, I stumbled across a coal mine on Dr. O'Donnell's ranch. Of course I had to investigate, and found on interviewing the superintendent, Francis H. Ely, that it was a regularly organized company named the Glen Ellen Coal Company. Superintendent Ely expects to have from five hundred to one thousand men working under him in less than six months. But what interested me most was to learn that Mr. Ely was one of the Rosevelt Rough Riders. He looks it, too; and my admiration was unbounded when I afterwards saw him riding through the streets on his spirited animal, a fine little horse that obeys him perfectly.

AN INTERESTING MEETING

The City Dads Hold Their Regular Monthly Circus

The regular monthly meeting of the City Trustees was a veritable circus and those of our citizens who were not present missed a rare treat The President of the Board, J. E. Poppe, was in anything but a jovial mood and the way he "bossed" the meeting was really interesting.

When the claim of H. Pooler for $20 for cleaning ditches came up before the Board for discussion, President Poppe, who appeared to take great interest in the claim, did most of the talking, in a wrangle which took place between him and Trustee Pinelli, who opposed the payment of the bill on the ground that it was unauthorized. When Pooler, the claimant, arose and attempted to defend his claim he was unceremoniously ordered in stentorian tones by President Poppe to "sit down and keep your mouth shut—I'm the boss here." Pointing his finger at Pooler he reiterated in thunderous tones, "Sit down, I tell you!" and Pooler meekly subsided.

A little later on the Board of Health question came up for discussion and when Trustee Hotz essayed to broach an opinion on the subject, President Poppe remarked to him: "Well, Mr. Hotz (hic!), if you know more about this Board of Health business than the State Board, now, spit it out." With a look of disgust depicted on his countenance, Trustee Hotz, also subsided, and from thence on the President of the Board was the whole thing. To use his own language he was the "boss" and ringmaster of the whole circus, and no mistake.

This meeting when it ended was characterized by all the previous meetings of the new Board—that is to say, the interests of the taxpayers of Sonoma and the welfare of the town were of secondary consideration with Trustees Poppe and Breitenbach, who, by violating all parliamentary rules which govern such bodies, are running things to suit themselves, regardless of law and decency and the wishes of the people whom they are supposed to represent. But of this more anon.

The Trustees got down to business, when the minutes of the previous meeting were read by Clerk Small and approved, after some slight corrections. These were to the effect "that the term of office of the old Board of Health had expired and that the Trustees proceed to appoint a new Board of Health."

The following bills were allowed and ordered paid:

R. A. Poppe, salary, attorney	$ 25 00
L. Breitenbach, cutting grass and repairs	2 50
J. N. Stademan, sprinkling	64 74
Joe B. Small, salary and supplies	28 00
Jas. H. Albertson, salary	15 00
W. R. Stammers, advertising	7 49
Total	$160 73

A communication was received stating that the new Board of Health appointed by President Poppe at a previous meeting had elected G. H. H. Cornelius as its President and Ranald McDonell Secretary. The communication was sent in by the latter. The Health Board that will now be recognized by the City Trustees is composed of G. H. H. Cornelius, Ranald McDonell, C. Aguillon and S. Schocken.

Clerk Small reported that in the matter of the expenses incurred in caring for the late Joaquin Hansen, who was run down by the cars of the California Northwestern and died several hours later from his injuries, that the company had forwarded $12.50 as its share of the expense. The Supervisors of Sonoma county had also forwarded a warrant for $10.50, leaving but $13 50 as the city's share of the total expense of $36.50.

On motion the money received from the county and the railway company was ordered turned over to City Treasurer Muldry.

On motion of Trustee Breitenbach, seconded by Trustee Hotz, a warrant was ordered drawn for $36 50 in favor of the City Clerk, who was authorized to pay Dr. Thomson and the other claimants for services rendered to Hansen.

Ordinance No. 70 was ordered published one time in the Sonoma INDEX-TRIBUNE.

A resolution was introduced by Trustee Breitenbach appointing Robert A. Poppe attorney for the Board for another year.

On motion of Trustee Hotz, which received a second from Trustee Ciucci, the resolution was adopted.

In the matter of the work to be done in Mountain Cemetery the whole business was laid over until the next meeting.

Adam Adler was granted permission to build an arch over the ditch in front of his premises on Spain street, subject to the approval of the Street Committee.

The claim of H. Pooler for $20 for cleaning ditches was laid over

The contract for doing the city's legal advertising was awarded to the Sonoma INDEX-TRIBUNE for another year, and it is still the official organ of the city.

The contract for doing the job printing for one year was awarded as follows: H. H. Granice—Poll tax receipts, city warrants, tax receipts, blanks for bills, license blanks, assessment blanks and letter heads.

W. R. Stammers—Instruction cards for voters, election tickets, sample election ballots, nomination of candidates and envelopes.

In the matter of the appointment of sexton of Mountain Cemetery the applications of Wm. Trudgen and Louis Breitenbach were read. On motion a ballot was taken and L. Breitenbach was declared elected by the following vote:

Breitenbach — Trustees Poppe, Breitenbach and Pinelli.

Trudgen — Trustees Hotz and Ciucci.

The Electric Light Committee, composed of Trustees Breitenbach and Pinelli, was asked for a report on street lighting by Trustee Hotz. President Poppe, with an air of satisfaction, stated that they had nothing to report, and the street lights went a-glimmering and the town remains in darkness to gratify a personal spite against the local stockholders of the company indulged in by Trustees Breitenbach and Poppe.

No further business coming up, Trustee Breitenbach made a motion to adjourn and it was so ordered.

POOR HUMAN NATURE.

One Phase of It Illustrated by the Dropping of a Coin.

It was raining hard when a cab drove up to one of the Broadway theaters and a man and woman alighted. The woman hurried into the playhouse, while the man drew out a roll of bills and handed the driver his fare. As he hurried toward the lobby, thrusting the balance of his money into his pocket, there was a jingling sound as a coin fell to the sidewalk. The man paused for a moment, looking at the walk in search of the coin; then, as the rain increased, he hurried into the playhouse.

Several persons had heard the coin fall. By the sound it could not have been of large denomination, but everybody looked for it, not openly, but furtively. First a big policeman sauntered across the walk with eyes bent on the pavement. A cab driver descended from his box and followed in the policeman's trail. The chauffeur of a private automobile next took a trip over the course. Two well dressed young men smoking anteperformance cigarettes walked abreast from the sheltering lobby to the curbstone in the downpour. A newsboy who came up at that juncture scented a "find" of some description and without any attempt at concealment "rubbered" energetically about the walk, pausing now and then to ask anxiously, "What was it?"

The search, both furtive and open, was abandoned, and the characters moved away. From the doorway of an adjoining building emerged a man of the actor out of work type. He glanced around rather shamefacedly; but, seeing only one person, and that one apparently not noticing his actions, he made a thorough and protracted search. Near the curb he found the coin and, holding it to the light to learn its value, disclosed a penny.—New York Press.

His Stock In Trade.

Conversation became reminiscent at the Lawyers' club the other day, the late Judge James T. Brady being the subject. A veteran practitioner who knew him well said:

"Brady's first attempt at practicing law was in very humble quarters in the rear of a cobbler's shop in Fulton street, near William. One day an Irishman who called and inquired for the cobbler was told by Brady that he was out. Peering about the room of the newly fledged lawyer, scantily furnished with two unpainted chairs and deal table, he inquired:

"I say, boss, what do you sell here?"

"Blockheads," promptly replied Brady.

"Humph!" said the Irishman. "Must be doing a good business, as I see you have only one left."—New York Times.

Bismarck and His Doctor.

When Bismarck first went to Dr. Schweninger for treatment, he grew very angry at the physician's searching questions. "I am tired of your interminable questions," he said at last. "Can't you cure your patients without so much annoyance?" "You find my questions annoying, eh?" roared the doctor, who was as fiery as the chancellor himself. "Very well, then, you may go to the doctors who treat their patients without asking them questions—you may go to the horse doctors." But Bismarck saw the justice of the physician's stand, and they became firm friends from that time.

Squeaking Boots.

Squeaking boots are an unmitigated nuisance both to their wearer and to every one within hearing of them. If they insist on asserting themselves even after they have been oiled round the soles where they join on to the "upper" and then stood in hot water, still you need not despair. With a tiny awl bore two or three small holes in the lower layer of the sole and with an oil can having a very small nozzle drop in as much oil as the spot will absorb. Then you may go your way silent, but rejoicing.

The Place For Married Folks.

A countryman and his bride applied at the box office for tickets.

"Box, stalls or family circle?" asked the ticket seller.

"Which'll it be, Marier?" said the groom.

"Well," she replied, with a blush, "seein' as how we're married now, p'raps it would be properer to sit in the family circle."—London Answers.

As to Ears.

"You should get your ears lopped, O'Brien," said a "smart" tourist to an Irish peasant whom he was quizzing; "they're too large for a man."

"Ah, bedad," replied the Hibernian, "I was just thinkin' yours would want to be made larger; sure they're too small for an ass."—London Standard.

NOT ON THE PLAYBILL.

A Little Comedy That Was Enacted Behind the Scenes.

In French theaters the doctor of the theater has a seat given him for every performance. He must be there each evening. A well known writer, M. B., says that when he was a young man a friend, the doctor of a certain theater, gave him his seat. Just as he was becoming interested in the first act the stage manager rushed up. The heroine had a nervous attack and required medical aid.

In the lady's dressing room he found the manager, with anguish depicted on every feature, and the lady wringing her hands and shrieking:

"Now, doctor, quick! What's to be done?"

He took the lady's hand in a wild attempt to feel her pulse. She shrieked more than ever and writhed like a snake.

"Have you poured any water on her head?" he asked.

"Yes."

"And no effect?"

"None."

"Then give her a sniff of eau de cologne."

"Haven't any," was the answer.

"Then go and fetch some."

Off rushed the manager and the stage manager together, and B. was left with the patient.

Suddenly she opened her eyes and smiled.

"Doctor," she said, "you are a good fellow, aren't you?"

"Yes, ma'mselle."

"You must be, doctor. Now, listen. There is nothing the matter with me. You would have found that out soon. I want a couple of days holiday. Can't you manage it?"

"Delighted," he replied joyfully. "Now, ma'amselle, you're a good sort too. I'm not a doctor. I came in on the doctor's ticket, so you must not give him away."

By this time the manager and stage manager came back, each with a bottle of eau de cologne. He told them the lady was quite composed and could appear without any danger; but she must have a few days' rest. They made wry faces, but granted the holiday.—London Quill.

Naming Japanese Babies.

It is not uncommon for a Japanese girl to bear the name of a flower. On the other hand, however, many girls in Japan bear the names of some domestic utensil, as frying pan or dustbrush. Doubtless this results from the custom common among some people of naming a child from the first object that strikes the eye after the little one has come into the world.

A Cure for Cholera Infantum.

"Last May," says Mrs. Curtis Baker of Bookwalter, Ohio, "an infant child of our neighbor's was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctor had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa to the house, telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days' time the child had fully recovered, and is now (nearly a year since) a vigorous, healthy girl. I have recommended this remedy frequently and have never known it to fail in any single instance." For sale by F. Duhring.

It is estimated that there are fewer than 10,000 wild elephants left in all the countries of the globe, and that five of these will be killed off where one is born. It is a matter of only a few years when the last must go.

"Then political corruption," murmured the simple mug, "is probably due to the existence of the ringworm."

HIS SHOES SQUEAKED.

The Quaint Motive That Moved the Old Darky to Wear Them.

"I'd as lief have a dentist file away at my teeth as to walk behind a pedestrian with squeaky shoes," said a Detroiter who is well known for some of his whims. "And I may add that thereby hangs a tale. Three or four years ago I sent a pair of shoes to the cobbler to be half soled. When they came back, they squeaked. I set them in a pan of water for an hour, but it was no good. I oiled the soles and edges, but they still squeaked. I left them out over night in the rain, but the squeak was still there. I worked at those shoes for a month and then gave them away to a darky who was choring around the house. He was proud of the squeak, but it grated on me till I told the fellow to clear out.

"Two weeks later," continued the nervous man, "my wife woke me up one night and said there was a man prowling around the yard. I sat up and listened, and I heard his shoes go squeak, squeak, squeak as he moved about. It wasn't a minute before I identified the sound.

"'It's dollars to cents that those are the shoes I gave away to the darky,' said I.

"'The squeak is certainly the same,' replied my wife.

"I raised the window and looked out, but it was too dark to see anybody. I continued to hear the squeak, squeak, however, until I finally lost it in the alley. Next morning I got up to find my lawn mower and garden hose missing, and three days later the darky was behind the bars. I told the police of the squeaky shoes, and they found the stolen goods in the fellow's house.

"'Boss,' how did you do it?' he asked as I went down to court.

"'It was those squeaky shoes,' I replied. 'I heard you moving about the yard.'

"'Befo' de Lawd, but what a fool I was!' he exclaimed. 'De old woman dun told me to go b'arfut, but I jest wanted dat squeaky noise along to make folks think dat a millyonaire was comin' home late!'"—Chicago Journal.

Never Out of Fashion.

A Japanese lady gave an interesting account of the ways of her countrywomen in regard to dress.

"A European lady," said she, "may have ten or fifteen dresses in a year and cast them aside when done with. In Japan a lady will have but very few in a year, but she keeps them all, so that at the end of her life she may have sixty or seventy, all carefully preserved and fit to wear again, and these go to her daughters.

"They need very little alteration, for fashions in Japan change but slightly, and dresses that descend like this as heirlooms are valued far more than new ones.

"Japanese ladies look upon their dresses much as European ladies regard their old china and costly furniture. Many of the most beautiful Japanese dresses are very old, but they look new and are never out of fashion."

"Fathers" of the Republic.

George Washington was but forty-three when he took command of the Continental army in 1775. Alexander Hamilton was only thirty-two when he became the first United States secretary of state in 1789. He had signed the constitution at thirty and had been a captain in the Continental army at nineteen. James Madison was but thirty-six when he became the "father" of our constitution at the convention of 1787. Thomas Jefferson wrote the Declaration of Independence shortly after his thirty-third birthday. When he attended the ratifying convention in 1788, James Monroe was but thirty years of age. At thirty-two he was United States senator, at thirty-six United States envoy to France and at forty-one governor of Virginia.

The Color of the Sky.

The blue color of the sky is merely the color of the air seen through a length of about forty-five miles. It has been observed by those who have ascended about five miles above the earth's surface that the sky appears of a dark inky hue owing to the very small reflection and dispersion of the light, while the blue color no longer appears above but below them. Similarly the blue color of distant hills is owing to the same cause.

A Weather Prophet.

A cup of hot coffee, it is said, can be used as a barometer. Allow a lump of sugar to drop to the bottom of the cup. If the air bubbles that arise collect in the middle of the surface, it means clear weather. If they hug the cup, forming a more or less complete ring, the indications are rain or snow, and if they separate, taking no definite position, changeable weather can be looked for.

ARE YOU DEAF?

ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

BALTIMORE, Md., March 30, 1901.

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me; and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours,

F. A. WERMAN, 730 S. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.
